

SOCIAL AND OTHER INTERESTS OF WOMEN

Miss Irene Ecken, daughter of George Ecken, 214 S. Lafayette st., and George Maynard Fessler, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Fessler, 222 E. Ewing av., were married with a pretty home wedding this afternoon at the home of the bride's father. The ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock by Rev. Babo of St. Paul's Memorial church. During the ceremony Miss Lena Ecken played "Hearts and Flowers."

Attending the couple were Miss Matilda Ecken, sister of the bride as maid of honor and Haskell R. Smith of Mishawaka as best man to the groom. The house was prettily decorated with autumn leaves and a profusion of white chrysanthemums. The bride was crowned in pale blue georgette crepe with white and gold lace trimmings and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums with a daintily arranged wreath of valley lilies about the head. Her maid was attired in pale green crepe de chene with trimmings of old rose and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. At 6 o'clock a dinner will be served to the guests from a table attractively appointed in blue and white with chrysanthemums at its center. There will be places for 35 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Fessler will be at home after No. 1 at the home of the bride, 214 S. Lafayette st., George Ecken of Dayton, O., was a guest from a distance at the wedding.

The young people of St. Paul's Methodist church will entertain in the parlors of the church Friday evening with a Halloween party. Autumn leaves will be used for decorations and during the evening of games and contests, refreshments will be served.

Trinity Presbyterian church members will give a masquerade party Thursday in the church parlors. The affair is carried out in the Halloween idea, with decorations of orange and black crepe paper hanging in streamers from the center of the ceiling to the sides of the room, a carpet of autumn leaves and corn-stalks in the corner and in the middle of the rooms, having big pumpkins in the center of each will be used. Games will be enjoyed and refreshments will be served.

Members of the Guiding Light Sunday school class will be entertained at the home of Miss Katherine Blakeman, 827 E. Wenger st., at a masquerade party Friday evening. Many clever costumes will be worn. The decorations will be fitting for the Halloween season and games and music will be the diversions for the evening. The members of the class number 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maurer, 211 W. Bartlett st., entertained with a dinner party Wednesday evening at their home, honoring Miss Loretta Krueyer and Frank J. Hiss, who will be married Saturday. The table was arranged with fall roses and set for 20 guests. Games and music featured the evening's entertainment and Miss Maude Crepeau won a favor in a word-making contest and Miss Krueyer was winner of a pumpkin contest. The honored guests were presented with several useful gifts.

The Colfax W. C. T. U. was entertained by Mrs. J. D. Cissne, 721 Cottage Grove av., Wednesday afternoon. During the meeting Mrs. Dille gave reports of the state convention held at Huntington last week, which showed that Indiana had made a gain of 2,000 W. C. T. U. workers this year. Great progress was shown in the work throughout the state and national prohibition was anticipated for 1920. Mrs. Collins read a poem, "The Two Glasses" following the business session and refreshments were served. On Nov. 15 Mrs. Mary Collins, 723 Cottage Grove av., will be hostess to the club members.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams of Mishawaka entertained with a 7 o'clock dinner Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Leone Cleveland of Chicago. Oak leaves, roses and ferns were the house decorations and on the table, candles with jack-o'-lantern shades were used. The hostess was assisted by her children, Miss Lenore and Master M. L. Jr., who were dressed in the costumes of the Queen of Hearts and Knave of Hearts, respectively. Miss Lenore brought the birthday cake into the dining room in a small cart and the cake was set in the center of the table. Following the dinner Master M. L. entered with a basket of presents for Mrs. Cleveland, which were opened there. Guests from South Bend were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cleveland and Mrs. C. B. Cleveland.

Mrs. Charles Stuckey, Clover Leaf farm, was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the Home Economics club of Clay and Harris townships. Roll call was responded to with current events and the program, "Meats," was given by Miss Mary Casey, whose subjects were "Tough Cuts of Meats" and "General Composition," and Mrs. Howard J. Longley, who had a discussion on the "Buying of Meats." The social time was made pleasant with several violin selections by Miss Mildred Stuckey. She was accompanied on the piano by

USE YOUR MIRROR OFTEN.

Do you look into your mirror often enough? Yes, of course you glance into it when you arrange your hair, but do you ever go up to it and stare boldly at the reflection within?

Every woman who wants to improve her personal appearance will do well to learn how to use the mirror. She will take it where the light is strongest and begin by studying her reflection as a whole—as a general assemblage of line and color. Then she can pick it to pieces later. The outfit ensemble is what strikes the ordinary observer. The more intimate acquaintance notices details.

What about the expression of the eyes and mouth? What is the story it tells? Does it tell a tale of selfishness, greed, conceit, conceit, superficiality? Or does it give out the idea of kindness, love, generosity, good sense, intelligence, friendliness? Or is there a queen intermingling of good and bad expressions? And in that case, which is the most enduring, and which flashes across the face more often?

Just sit down with an open mind before your mirror and ask questions. You will learn a whole lot about yourself in a half hour. And if you are as wise as woman ought to be you can map out a campaign of beauty culture right in your own mind, and put it into effect with no one but yourself being the wiser and gain results that will make all your friends compliment you.

Sit down, sister mine, and get out the most exacting mirror you can find. Pull the shades up and let the strongest and most fruitful and glaring light of day shine upon you. Purge your mind and vision of prejudice. Then work according to the result. There's a reason behind every frown, and every little curl of the lip may soon mean a fixed snarl. It is up to you to find out the reason and to right the fault.

What the French Maid Told Marjorie

BY JANE LOWELL.

A LINEN SHOWER.

"You know Maud Smith is going to be married, Marjorie," remarked Marjorie, and, she continued, "we girls are going to give her a linen shower. 'Will you give me some information so we can do the affair up properly?'"

"Indeed I will," answered Marie, and then, after a few moments thought, she went on: "When arranging a shower for a prospective bride, let the guests bring her useful articles, rather than luxuries, which are accumulated after years of housekeeping. The linen shower is always sensible and there are so many attractive articles to be made from this material that there need be no difficulty in selecting suitable gifts."

"To make the shower entertaining as well, have all the guests send their gifts to your home and in one room arrange a linen shop. To do this, have a counter built at one end and cover it with white crepe paper. On this spread the lovely bits of linen.

Have some one attired in an Irish peasant's costume preside at the counter. Each one selects the gift she has brought and presents it to the bride-to-be.

These may include guest towels, initial napkins, centerpieces, pillow cases, lingerie, pillows, bureau scarves, etc. There are a number of lovely tea napkins and luncheon sets, which any bride would be proud to number among her gifts. If these are too expensive, each guest could agree to contribute part of a set, duplicating one of the pretty designs displayed in the shops.

There are many simple patterns which require a very short time to embroider, and if one person does several dollies, another a centerpiece and a third two or three napkins in the tea set, it will be completed in a short space of time."
